Jill Huntley Taylor, Ph.D.

TAYLOR TRIAL CONSULTING, FOUNDER AND CEO

Dr. Huntley Taylor is the founder and CEO of Taylor Trial Consulting, a national trial consulting firm headquartered in Philadelphia, PA. For over 25 years, she has been a go-to consultant for conducting jury research, focus groups, witness preparation, and jury selections on cases across the country. She has a Ph.D. in social psychology and her dissertation research was one of the first to apply the story model of juror decision making to civil litigation. She continues to apply this model to her consulting work today.

She has extensive experience working on a wide variety of case types ranging from contracts, employment, negligence and catastrophic injury claims, intellectual property, products liability, suicide, Title IX, and beyond. Dr. Huntley Taylor is often invited to speak at firm or corporate seminars, bar conferences, give statements to the media, and has made guest appearances on CNN with Anderson Cooper, Law & Crime, Court TV, and Inside Edition. She also regularly writes on a variety of topics related to juries and jury decision-making including articles and speaking engagements on topics such as the Reptile Theory, Catastrophic Injuries, Gender in the Courtroom, Implicit Bias, Title IX, Jury Selection, and Opening Statements.

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHIES

Tom Krieglstein

SWIFT KICK, FOUNDER AND LEAD FACILITATOR

Since 2004, Tom has trained almost one million people worldwide at some of the largest companies, such as Coca-Cola, Apple, and Nike, on how to build a Culture of Connection™ within their organization.

As the Founder and Lead Facilitator of Swift Kick, he holds an unprecedented 7 National Speaking Titles. He is a TEDx speaker, has 2 Amazon best-selling books, and sat on the boards for the NYC Entrepreneurs' Organization and the NYC National Speaker's Association.

Organizations, both small and as large as the U.S. Military, have brought Tom in to train and deploy his award-winning program, Dance Floor Theory™ methodology, to increase community member engagement and retention rates.

And on a personal note, Tom lives next to Steven Colbert and Aaron Rodgers just outside New York City. He was named after a cat. He was on a reality show on NBC. He was featured on the Tofurky (TOE-FUR-KEY) box. He got kicked off the Oprah Winfrey show. He held a Guinness World Record for hugs. And he loves peanut butter so much that he once tried to start a festival called "The New York City Peanut Butter Jam."

Greg Lindsay

URBANIST, FUTURIST AND SPEAKER

Greg Lindsay is an urban tech fellow at Cornell Tech's Jacobs Institute, where he explores AI and augmented reality at urban scale. He is also a senior fellow of MIT's Future Urban Collectives Lab, a senior advisor to Climate Alpha, and a non-resident senior fellow of the Atlantic Council's Scowcroft Strategy Initiative.

He's been cited as an expert on the future of cities, technology, and mobility by The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Wall Street Journal, CNN, NPR, and the BBC. He's advised Intel, Samsung, IKEA, Starbucks, Audi, Hyundai, and numerous G20 government entities. He was previously the urbanist-in-residence at URBAN-X — BMW MINI's urban tech accelerator — the director of applied research at NewCities, and founding director of strategy at its mobility-focused offshoot CoMotion.

He speaks frequently about cities, mobility, innovation, and globalization, including appearances at 10 Downing Street, the United States Military Academy, Sandia National Laboratories, the OECD, Harvard Business School, the MIT Media Lab, and the Aspen Ideas Festival. His work with Studio Gang Architects on the future of suburbia was displayed at New York's Museum of Modern Art (MoMA) in 2012.

Greg is a two-time Jeopardy! champion (and the only human to go undefeated against IBM's Watson).
